Lead No. Lead Instruction and Lead Result(s)

According to SARDILLI, Officer HESS asked another officer if he (other officer) had his (HESS') gun. SARDILLI assumed that HESS lost possession of his firearm when he rolled off the hood of the car.

□ SARDILLI stated that another officer then went over to HENRY and twice asked if he (HENRY) was shot or hurt, while she was still assisting Officer HESS. SARDILLI estimated that the officer came to check on HENRY approx. 3-4 minutes after he was taken out of the vehicle. When she looked back in that direction, the officer was no longer there and HENRY had also been rolled onto his back (SARDILLI did not notice this happen). SARDILLI asked Officer HESS if she could check on HENRY to which he did not answer her (she cited that he was distracted by the chaotic situation). SARDILLI then just went over to HENRY as EMS was arriving and a female EMT went to aid Officer HESS. SARDILLI attempted to check HENRY's radial pulse in which she was unsuccessful due to him being handcuffed (she did not realize that he was handcuffed until that time). SARDILLI then attempted to check HENRY's carotid pulse in which she did not feel one. SARDILLI then began chest compressions on HENRY in which she believes that she completed approx. 8 compressions over a period of time that she estimates as one minute. This is when the officer (that originally checked on HENRY) returned with a medical kit. The officer took over CPR and SARDILLI assisted him with cutting off HENRY's shirt. The officer then applied AED pads to HENRY's chest as other EMS personnel placed him on a backboard and into the ambulance.

□ SARDILLI stated that she then left the scene with BRAIN driving. They stopped off at a nearby Mobil in which she proceed to wash blood off her hands. SARDILLI stated that "it was apparent that DJ was dead" describing that his eyes were glazed over and rolled back. SARDILLI stated that she knew HENRY because he played football with her boyfriend, but did not see him prior to the incident that evening. SARDILLI also knew Officer HESS due to him being present at community policing events at the school where she is a student teacher.
